WEEKS TRAIL FUNK FOR

WASHINGTON, June 26 .- Shadow ed for weeks by detectives instructed to get anything possible against him, was the alleged experience of which Clarence S. Funk of Chicago, star witness in the Lorimer investigation, complained today to the senate committee inquiring into the Lorimer elec-

The statement produced a sensation because the name of Edward Hines, whom Mr. Funk had testified had asked him to contribute $10,000 toward $100,000 used to "put Lorimer over at Springfield," was mentioned in connection with the services of the detectives. Funk said four detectives had followed him to Wasnington and two had watched him during luncheon today. One of them, he said, when caught in a tight place, had been compelled to give his name and that of his employers. Mr. Funk declined to break his word to the detective and reveal his name. He said the employer was not Senator Lorimer. The committee ended the hearing by going into executive session to consider the consideration of steps to prevent de dectives interferring with witnesses.

Mr. Funk's statement about the detectives came at the close of a long examination on the witness stand. He re-told the story he related to the Helm investigating committee in Illi-nois about how Mr. Hines is alleged to have asked him, as general manager of the International Harvester company, to contribute $10,000 to the Lorimer fund. For hours the attorneys and members of the committee had asked ques tion after question about this conver sation, the report of which probably led to the present investigation of the Lorimer election. The witness had described his personal relations to Senator Lorimer, Mr. Hines and many others figuring in the case.

To tell his name, Mr. Funk said, would mean his dismissal.

CAPITOL SITE IS UNCERTAIN

Salt Lake, June 25 .- As a mark of courtesy to the real estate men who have tendered ground on the southeast bench as a proposed capitol site and are urging that the capitol be moved to that location, members of the state capitol commission went out in automobiles with Joseph Kimball yesterday afternoon to look over the ground offered by the real estate men. The trip was made, however with the understanding that the members of the commission were not in favor of making any change in the location and were of the firm opinion that they could not make a change if they so desired because of the working of the law providing for the building of the state house.

The commission was called together at 2 o'clock in the office of Governor William Spry. Mr. Kimball, as a special reffipresentative of the men who are offering to donate land on Ninth South, an invitation to the members of the commission to accompany him in auto-mobiles to the site and inspect it.

The matter of the agitated change was presented to commission by Gov-ernor Spry and it was discussed in-It was the unanimous opinion of the commission that no change in location of the capitol could possibly be made unless a special session of the Legislature was called and au-thorized the change, or the matter was laid over until the next regular session of the Legislature and a change was authorized at that time

Would Be Lost to State. The Governor called attention to the fact, in addition to the wording of the law, which says that he money appropriated to build it on the capitol grounds, that the state had already spent something like $70,000 on the capitol site on the north bench, and if the state failed to use the ground for a capitol pullding it would revert back to Salt Lake City and the money spent on it by the State in improve ments would be lost to the state.

However, it was suggested by the covernor that on of coursesy to the men who had made a generous offer of land for a capital building site in the southeastern portion of the city, the members of the commission should accept the invitation to ride out and look over the ground.

This was agreed to by the mem-bers of the commission and shortly after 2 o'clock the party leftt in automobiles and spent an bour or more looking over the proposed location. Another meeting of the commission will be held in the near future, at which details of the arcaltecture of the capitol will be discussed and the recommendations of the commission as to the style of the building to be

Provo, June 26.—Further particulars of the killing of Ab Murdock at Red Creek, about thirty miles east of Heber City on the Ulntah reservation, Saturday afternoon, by Deputy Sheriff A. B. Souggs and a companion named Henry, from Evanston, Wyo. came to the sheriff's office here to-day. It is said that Murdock and a companion made a raid on the ranches near Evanston last week and stole thirty-live head of valuable Percheron horses and drove them south across the Utah line into the Uintah reservation. Deputy Sheriff Souggs fol-lowed the trail of the horse thieves to the Utah line and went back to Evanston and took the train for Utah, bringing Henry, owner of some of the stolen horses, along with him to identify the horses.

Souggs and Henry came direct to ouggs and Henry secreted selves in the rocks some distance from the ranch while Gudmundson went on following the trail. After the men separated a short time Murdock came along the road leading two horses and riding another. When op posite the Wyoming officers Murdoci was ordered to throw up his hand: and surrender, but instead of doing so reached for his gan, showing every indication that he intended to resist The officers had the drop on the half breed and when he showed fight two rifle shots rang out as one shot, and Ab Murdock was in the happy hunting grounds. Deputy Sheriff Gudmundson came to Heber City and reported the killing, and, in company with the acting coroner of Wasatch county, went back to the scene this morning. A coroner's inquest will be held today.

Ab Murdock, who was about years of age and who was born and reared in Wasatch county, was a halfbreed Indian and had been looked upon for many years as a bad man. He had at least one murder to his credit, and the number of horses he stolen, according to the officers here. would be impossible to enumerate Murdock shot and killed Ernest Olds at Manti in 1889 or 1890, and for this crime he was tried in the First district court at Provo and sentenced to the territorial prison for a term of

The crime of killing young Olds was a cold-blooded and premedittaed one, according to people here who remember the affair. Murdock was enamored of a girl whose home was in Manti, and, finding that the girl was partial to Olds, a handsome young man of the same town, the Indian laid in wait and shot his rival to death from ambush with a Winchester rifle Murdock only served a part of his sentence and was pardoned.

MEDICOS HOLDING

LOS ANGELES, June 26 .- Dr. William H. Welch, retiring president, in addressing the house of delegates of the American Medical association today, recommended that an interna-tional convention on the control of tropical disease be held in San Francisco at the same time that the city holds its Panama-Pacific exposition in 1915. He suggested that such a convention would be a fitting tribute to the aid given by medicine and the work of sanitation in the construction of the canal.

Among the reports submitted was one by Colonel W. C. Gorgas of the United States army, who is credited largely with the excellent sanitary conditions prevailing in the canal zone. He reported that a list of both federal and confederate surgeons who died in the Civil was was being complied with a view to providing suitable memorials. The suggestion of Dr S Welr Mitchell of Philadelphia that a monument to surgeons of both armles who gave up their lives in the performance of a duty to common humanity be erected, was endorsed

DEFENSE IN CASE

Salt Lake, June 25 .- That the de fense will admit the killing of J. W. Axtell by J. J. Morris, but will endeavor to prove that the shot which cost Axtell his life was fired accidentally and not intentionally, was the statement made to the jury yesterday by counsel for Morris when the trial of the murder case began before a jury C Loofbourow's division Judge F. of the Third district court.

Morris evidenced more interest in the hearing of his case yesterday than he has shown in the examination of talesmen to secure a jury. day he listened attentively to the stories told by witnesses for the state and frequently jotted notes down on a pocket memorandum which he carried

On the cross examination nesses by counsel for the defendant the latter frequently made suggestions to his attorneys as to questions to put to the witness. Morris is an inveterate cigarette smoker and when court adjourns or takes a recess he invariably has a cigarette in his mouth before he gets to the door and has it lighted by the instant he is outside of the court

District Attorney E. O. Intent of Murder Lacking.

Carl A. Badger, one of the attorneys for the defense, made the opening statement for that side of the case. He said the defense would admit the killing of Axtell by Morris, but would attempt to show that the intent of murder was lacking. He declared that the defense would show that Morris did not fire at Axtell intentionally, but that in his effort to escape from Axtell's clutches, his automatic revolver was accidentally discharged. The de-fense will prove that Morris did not know that his revolver had been fired and did not know that Axtell had been shot until the latter's hold relaxed and he fell to the pavement. Morris will attempt to show that he thought, when the report of the gun sounded, that he himself had been shot and he didn't realize what had happened until Axtell fell.

The first witness for the state was John Held, in front of whose place, on East Second South, the shooting of Axtell occurred, and who stood within a few rods of Axtell when he was Held described in a vivid manner the shooting and what happened just prior to and after the killing of Axtell. Held told his story in detail and on the cross-examination the defense was unable to shake him in any of his statements. Held was the strongest witness the state presented yesterday and his evidence is relied upon as a strong factor in proving Morris guilty of deliberate murder.

Adolph L. White, of the Uncle Sam Loan office, was also one of the state's principal witnesses yesterday. White told of the robbery of the store and what happened before Morris ran down the street and killed Axtell. Morris Demanded Cash.

White testified that Thomas Murray, partner of Morris, who is now accused of robbery, held the men in the store at the point of a gun while Morris went through the jewelry cases helping himself to diamonds and jewelry. Witness said that after getting the diamonds, Morris demanded that he be given the cash in the money drawer.

The witness then told how the robbers backed out of the store and how he had pursued them down Commer-cial street, then on Orpheum alley, State street and on to Second South Then he had heard a shot.

Dr. A. N. Hanson, county physician, gave professional testimony as to the nature of the wound which caused Axtell's death and the course pursued by the bullet fired into his body Levi C. Axtell, father of the victim of Morris' bullet, went on the stand and testified that his son was in the best of health when he left home for his work on the fatal afternoon of Leo Friedman, a bookkeeper in the loan office, corroborated the evidence of the witness White as to the holdup of the loan office and related a graphic story of the occurrence.

Fred Howard, a fireman, testified that he had followed Morris down on State street and he swore that Morris fired his revolver twice at the crowd which was following him down State He said Morris made motions which led him to believe he had re-loaded his gun. He testified further to seeing Axtell shot and fall. Court adjourned at 5 o'clock until 10 o'clock Monday morning.
